

My church has no walls

I take the life given to me
And make the life I want it to be
I think about fate and destiny
Or if what's to be just comes naturally

My church has no walls

No stained glass, no marble halls
Just eternal skies, endless shores

My church has no walls

My church has no walls

only doors

It blows away the wind
Burns brighter than the stars
I've come to appreciate
The beauty of our scars
Every breath a miracle
Every dawn an answered prayer
What I once was searching for
I now find everywhere

My church has no walls

No stained glass, no marble halls

Just eternal skies, endless shores

My church has no walls

My church has no walls

only doors

I've seen enough to know for a fact Whatever's gone isn't coming back
The only thing that goes on and on
Is wondering where this all comes from

My church has no walls

No stained glass, no marble halls

Just eternal skies, endless shores

My church has no walls

My church has no walls

only doors

© 07/07/2021, Mark Kintis & Brian Rooker
Stone Rain