

that was now (this is zen)

that was now, this is zen what never was has always been time passes by but never ends
that was now, this is zen
what is wrong will be right, and then what once was will never have been this wounded heart will come to mend
that was now, this is zen
my life is just a river
running out to sea
and when it's done
the rains will come
and bring it back to me
the castle that we tried to defend crumbled and must be built again was it as real as we pretend?
that was now, this is zen
to count your riches count your friends i've been here before again how many times will my world end?
that was now, this is zen
my life is just a river
running out to sea
and when it's done
the rains will come
and bring it back to me
and the waters come together after flowing across the land washing away forever our castles made of sand
my life is just a river
running out to sea
and when it's done
the rains will come
and bring it back to me
Glad You're Gone
It's a mystery, a mystery to me
How you can poison the well,
Put me through hell
And smile as though that's the way it should be . . .
You can't see the sun
When you're crying all the time
What will you become
If you're dying all the time?
You're heart is shattered glass
You keep it broken all the time
I'm not the first, he's not the last
Over and over all the time
Never thought I'd see the day
I'd think of you and say-
Glad you're gone
My Love, carry on
Don't give me another thought
You named the price
Live with what you bought
Glad you're gone
My Love, carry on
Don't give us another thought
You've spun the web
Baby, now you're caught
I don't have to read every page
To see how the story ends
It doesn't take a sage to know
Ex-lovers can't be friends
From this self inflicted wound
Our two hearts bleed as one
Too much too late, too little too soon
You can't undo what's not been done
Never thought I'd see the day
I'd think of you and say-
Glad you're gone
My Love, carry on
Don't give me another thought
You named the price
Live with what you bought
Glad you're gone
My Love, carry on
Don't give us another thought*

You've spun the web
Baby, now you're caught
Never Again
You know that I
Flew so high
I took the world below for granted
Like an eagle that never landed
Live and learn, crash and burn
The things I thought I left behind me
Found a way to come back to find me
Never again . . .
This schoolboy has learned his lesson
Let this be my last confession
I won't go back to where I've been
I swear to God, never again
Spoken vows
Broken now
At a time I should have known better
Eternity was lost forever
Closed my eyes, lived the lies
The things I wish I had today
Are the same ones I threw away
Never again . . .
This schoolboy has learned his lesson
Let this be my last confession
I won't go back to where I've been
I swear to God, never again
The Puzzle Song
And in your wildest dreams
Did you ever think you'd be Where you are right here and now?
Well, you can't plan destiny
Caught off guard, we catch our balance
Keep the faith, walk the line
I know that we could find the answers
If we could just find the time
And we try to stop the world
But it just keeps spinning
round and round
And we don't know
if what we're looking for
is something that can be found
Still we try to put it together
And make sense of it
Will the pieces of the puzzle ever fit?
Don't give up, you're still a part of it
Will the next step that we take
Be different than the last?
How can we face the future
If we're still looking at our past?
What has made us so afraid
To take a breath, lose control?
When did the mountain we're climbing
Become such a damn deep hole?
And we try to stop the world
But it just keeps spinning
round and round
And we don't know
if what we're looking for
is something that can be found
Still we try to put it together
And make sense of it
Will the pieces of the puzzle ever fit?
Don't give up, you're still a part of it
London Bridges
Night is done,
Strike a match
Light the sun . . .
Long ago, a children's morning
In my mind a plan was forming
To go outside
Run with the dog
Play in the mud
Chase down a frog
My shadow ran behind me
Look around and you could find me
Climbing trees
Throwing stones
Scraped my knees
But safe at home

My world and I were in perfect harmony
And my soul filled with that sound
Nothing could stand in front of me
Nothing could stop the
London bridges falling down
Years went by without warning
In my mind a plan was forming
Climbing ladders
Decision trees
Urgent matters and lawyer fees
My shadow overtakes me
I turn around but I can't face me Afraid to see What I've become
Can this be me?
What have I done?
This life that I've built stands for all to see
On a foundation that's not sound
Cracks are forming deep inside of me
Nothing could stop the
London bridges falling down
Everything that I know is wrong
(What did I really know?)
Everything that I had is gone
(Where did it really go?)
Naked as the day that I was born
In this empty frame, a new picture forms
Who is this standing now in front of me
With trembling legs on solid ground?
Clear the wreckage out to sea
Nothing could stop the
London bridges falling down
Night is done
Strike a match and
Light the sun
Fell in love today
Don't know why
Maybe it was the look in your eyes
Or the way you called my name
Falling like a summer rain
Gently from your skies
Please don't ask me to explain
The depths that I have searched
Now that heaven's come to earth
My life's gonna change
I fell in love today
My life's gonna change
I fell in love today
Day and night
Let time prove what we know now is right
In a world that's not our own
We have made ourselves a home
Certain if we share the light
We can roll away the stone
On this golden earth we trod
With no envy for the gods
Why would we make that trade
Once side by side we've laid?
Awakened now we've seen
The colors of our dreams
No more shades of gray
We fell in love today
No more shades of gray
We fell in love today

© 2/16/01, Mark Kintis & Brian Rooker
Stone Rain
that was now (this is zen)

Little Miracles

Well, the big break never came
But it busted me up pretty bad just the same
For awhile it all seemed in vain
Trying to set the world on fire
It was hard enough to protect my flame
Always standing in the rain

Little miracles, little victories

Well, everything I wanted

No, it didn't come to be

Little miracles, little victories

The biggest battles I fought

Were the ones inside of me

We all live a life of dreams

Searching for a thread

While coming apart at the seams

Sometimes above the clouds we soar

Other times we're washed up on the shore

Some swim in the grand design

Some drown in random chance

Some get tangled in the net

We all get caught in circumstance

Little miracles, little victories

Well, everything I wanted

No, it didn't come to be

Little miracles, little victories

The biggest battles I fought

Were the ones inside of me

A walk with a dog

A smile from a child

Forgiving yourself

A lost love reconciled

One quiet moment

When your heart's at ease

You win your life

In little victories

Pray for the strength

To get up off your knees

You win your life in

Little miracles, little victories

Well, everything I wanted

No, it didn't come to be

Little miracles, little victories

The biggest battles I fought

Were the ones inside of me

Little miracles, little victories . . .

If Ever There Was Love

The first time I saw you

I remember thinking that

If ever there was love

You might be the one

I've seen the years go by

You're still by my side

Just wanted to tell you

Sometimes you make me so happy I could cry

If ever there was love . . .

In the chaos and uncertainty

There's a peace you bring to me

In my brightest days you are the sun

I hear the words of destiny

It's the song you sing to me and

Looks like you're the one,

Yeah, you're the one

I know we've been dreaming

About the days to come

How we'll travel far

With love as our guiding star

Let's start the journey

One step with our hearts

Taking each other away

From ever being apart

If ever there was love . . .

In the chaos and uncertainty

There's a peace you bring to me

In my brightest days you are the sun

I hear the words of destiny

It's the song you sing to me and

Looks like you're the one,

Yeah, you're the one

Share your secrets with me

And I'll tell you all of mine

Now and forever

Until the end of time

We'll share the laughter

And the tears to be cried

I'll be your fortress

Protect you from the world outside

This is the one who loves you

Looking at you in the night

These are the words of forever

Together for love, together for life

If ever there was love . . .

In the chaos and uncertainty

There's a peace you bring to me

In my brightest days you are the sun

I hear the words of destiny

It's the song you sing to me and

Looks like you're the one,

Yeah, you're the one

One by One

One by one

They're tearing down the mountains

One by one

City skies are turning gray

One by one

Waters are being poisoned

One by one

We've turned and looked away

How much hope

Have we left for tomorrow?

How much do

We expect the world to take?

How much time

Are we going to borrow?

How loud must

The alarm sound before we wake?

So raise your voices

We cannot be silent

Or silently

The world that we love will die

Buried by those

Digging forests for treasure

Fools who cast

The true fortunes aside

One by one

As we become enlightened

Word and deed

Will echo and resound

Together

Like thunder and lightning

One by one

We must hold our ground

One by one, one by one

Hellfire

My bones in the dirt

My soul on a cloud

Walking around in wings

And some saggy old shroud

No beer and no sex,

Just a handbook of hymns

I'd rather be on earth

With all of my sins

Well I believe it

If the good book tells me so

But if that's heaven, I don't want to go

Maybe I could take it for an hour or so

But if that's heaven, I don't want to go

Damn demons chasing me

And spitting out my name

Spend all of eternity

Just burning up in flames

When my number comes up

Please don't count me in

I like the work much better

Than the wages of sin

Now I believe it

If the good book tells me so

But if that's hell, well, I don't want to go

Maybe I could take it for an hour or so

But if that's hell, well, I don't want to go

Some say if they do exist only time will tell

But I've already had my share of both heaven and hell

There's more than enough in this world to keep me satisfied

And that is why I'm in no hurry to see the other side

So I stopped counting the moments and threw the calendar away

When at last I realized-

Every day is judgment day

Well I believe it

if the good book tells me so

But if that's heaven, I don't want to go

Maybe I could take it for an hour or so

But if that's hell, well, I don't want to go

© 2/16/01, Mark Kintis & Brian Rooker

Stone Rain

that was now (this is zen)